

Vlachos Bros S.A. was founded in 1995 by Nicholas and Dimitris Vlachos in response to an increasing demand for flexible packaging converters adopting a scientific approach. Based on the specialization of the two co-founders, the company soon created a strong customer base and is the fastest growing flexible packaging converter in Greece, boasting an average annual growth rate of over 30% and exporting more than 60% of its production.

In January 1999 the company was certified according to ISO 9001 by TUV Germany.

Recently, in line with the international trend for globalisation and strategic partnerships, the company succeeded in attracting two leading packaging companies to participate in its capital stock: "Flexopack S.A.", a leading plastic film producer and "Paperpack Tsoukarides S.A.", the biggest paper packaging and paper box producer in Greece. The resulting capital increase was almost entirely invested in production equipment, which doubled the production capacity of the company.

Vlachos Bros S.A.'s modern production facilities are conveniently located close to the International Airport of Athens.
